Travelling from the M5 Motorway:

- Take Junction 5 on the M5 motorway, onto A38.
- Following the Satnav, heading down the A456 you will eventually reach a T-junction. Directly across the road from you there will be a Georgian looking pub, called the Salwey Arms.
- Turn right at the T-junction.
- Just after the Salwey Arms there is a left hand turn (ignore the Satnav if it tells you to go straight on)
- Take the left hand turn (onto the B4362) and you will immediately see on your right a glass fronted, wooden cladded building that has solar panels on the roof (surrounded by green heras fencing).
- That is the AD4Energy office. To access it, 50 metres after the turning there is a right hand turn that has two street lights either side of the entrance.
- Take the turn and head into the AD4Energy carpark through the entrance with two large green gates.
- You have arrived, Welcome to AD4Energy!

Travelling from the North:

- Following the Satnav, from the roundabout where the Mid Counties Co-Op is based, head southbound down the A49. Carry along the road for approximately 3-4 miles.
- After that the Satnav may ask you to turn right onto Park Lane, please ignore this.
- A couple of hundred meters further down the road, you will see on your right a sign for a Travelodge and a Georgian looking pub, called the Salwey Arms.
- Just before the Salwey Arms there is a right hand turn.
- Take the right hand turn (onto the B4362) and you will immediately see on your right a glass fronted, wooden cladded building that has solar panels on the roof (surrounded by green heras fencing).
- That is the AD4Energy office. To access it, 50 metres after the turning there is another right hand turn that has two street lights either side of the entrance.
- Take the turn and head into the AD4Energy carpark through the entrance with two large green gates.
- You have arrived, Welcome to AD4Energy!

Travelling from the South:

- Following the Satnav, heading down the A49 you will need to look out for a Georgian looking pub, called the Salwey Arms on the left.
- Just after the Salwey Arms there is a left hand turn (ignore the Satnav if it tells you to go straight on)
- Take the left hand turn (onto the B4362) and you will immediately see on your right a glass fronted, wooden cladded building that has solar panels on the roof (surrounded by green heras fencing).
- That is the AD4Energy office. To access it, 50 metres after the turning there is a right hand turn that has two street lights either side of the entrance.
